Leadership Lessons from the Ice

Wednesday 23rd April 2025 6.00pm to 7.15pm

Presented by Sue Stockdale, FRSGS, First British woman to ski to the magnetic North Pole, Executive Coach, Speaker and Author

About this Webinar

This webinar explores the highs and lows of a team's attempt to ski across the Greenland Ice Cap, uncovering powerful leadership lessons forged in extreme conditions. Through real-life stories of resilience, teamwork, and decision-making, Sue will examine how leaders recognise and leverage strengths, act as coaches to unlock potential, and balance strategic vision with operational execution.

She will also reflect on how awareness of one's mindset is critical in the face of change and why leadership always begins with self—understanding the "Me vs. We" dynamic to inspire and elevate those around you. Whether you're leading in the boardroom or on expedition, these insights will equip you to navigate uncertainty with confidence.
